

Learn Russian in Riga & Moscow

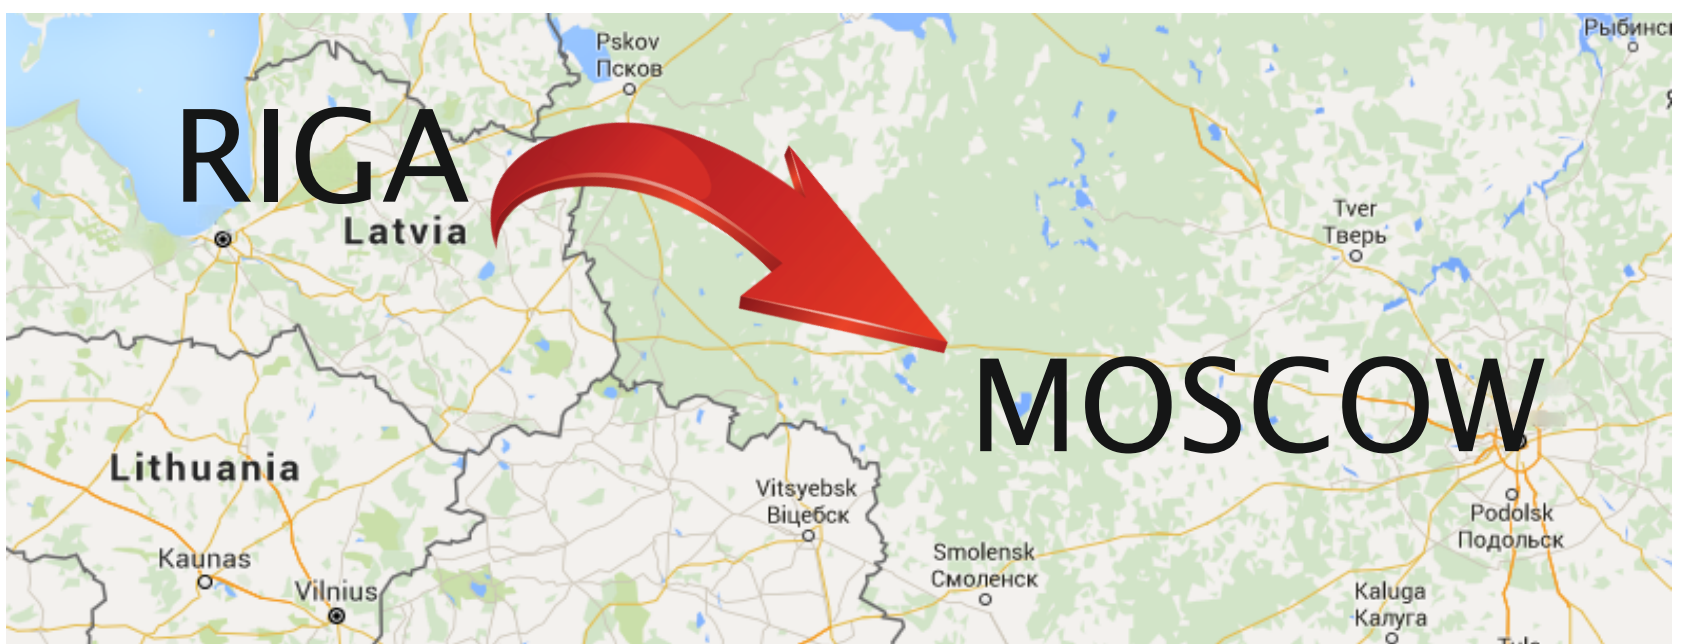

Do you want to start learning Russian? Do you already speak Russian but want to jump to the next level? Do you simply want to brush up on your Russian language skills in a Russian-speaking environment? If your answer is yes, then your next step seems to be easy: just go to Russia this summer!

But Russia is also unpredictable. It is too difficult to say what the situation will be like in Russia by the time summer break starts. There are too many risk-factors, including the war in Syria, tensions between Russia and Ukraine, and fluctuating US-Russian relations.

We offer a viable solution: A two-part Russian language program offered in Riga and Moscow. Students first come to Riga in June and then go to Moscow in July.

If after the first four weeks in Riga the political climate in Russia is favorable, then you will spend the remaining four weeks in Moscow. However, if the political climate in Russia proves to be unfavorable, then you can spend the remaining four weeks in Moscow or you can complete the Russian course in Riga.

Take the risk out of your summer plans!
